

COFFEECUP

In all seriousness, sometimes a person has to get into the mode of thought that enables her or him to move forward. Our question to you... where's your wireless website? Even if you don't know squat about this nifty, modern, wireless world, the super simple (not in a bad way) CoffeeCup Wireless Web Builder is the answer to your wappy needs.

Included in this program is an image library and editor, live preview, and a super easy drag & drop site wizard. Really, it practically does everything for you.

Imagine, being able to have someone gaze at your little wireless site while they're waiting for a train, in the tub, scurrying across town— all on their teenie little cell phone! It can all be yours with CoffeeCup. Get moving. This isn't going to be novel forever.
